

Redfern
Legal Centre

NSW Supreme Court to deliver strip search class action judgment

WHEN: 10.00 am, Tuesday 30 September (media conference to occur as soon as possible after the proceeding concludes)

WHO: Slater and Gordon Associate, Class Actions, William Zerno
Redfern Legal Centre Supervising Solicitor Police Powers and Administrative Law, Samantha Lee

WHERE: Supreme Court of NSW, Phillip Street, Sydney

A judgment in a landmark class action led by Slater and Gordon Lawyers and Redfern Legal Centre against the State of New South Wales is due Tuesday, September 30 at 10:00 AM.

Justice Dina Yehia will deliver the judgment to the NSW Supreme Court.

The proceedings will also be live-streamed.

Leading class action law firm Slater and Gordon and Redfern Legal Centre commenced the class action in July 2022, brought by Raya Meredith on behalf of people who were forced to be strip searched by NSW Police at music festivals from 2016.

The class action has to date had more than 3,000 people register with thousands more strips searches conducted across the claim period.

Slater and Gordon's William Zerno and Redfern Legal Centre's Sam Lee will hold a media conference outside the NSW Supreme Court shortly after the judgment.

Information about the class action and relevant documents can be found here.

Media Contacts

Redfern Legal Centre
Lauren Gillin - 0493 315 023; lauren.gilllin@rlc.org.au

Slater and Gordon Lawyers
Rebecca Nicholson - 0409 216 053; rebecca.nicholson@slatergordon.com.au